

The Professional Roofer's choice for quality roofing membranes.

Taco

The philosophy behind the Tradesman brand is simple. Dedicated professional craftsmen in any field recognize the value of quality materials. For professional roofers, quality materials mean increased productivity. For building owners, quality materials result in better finished applications and a longer-lasting roof.

Tradesman roofing membranes are formulated with the latest SBS-modified bitumen blend technology. The result is a quality roofing membrane that professional roofers and building owners can depend on, designed for use in a variety of roof assemblies.

Tradesman Brand products ease application because they roll straighter, lay flatter, and handle better than other roofing membranes, which means a more efficient, quality installation. Tradesman Brand base piles are available in both mop and torch grades. Tradesman Brand granule-surfaced cap sheets are designed to be applied using several familiar application methods: with a sand backing for hot asphalt and cold adhesive applications, a plastic film backing for torch applications, and a high-tack backing for self-adhesive applications. They are available in a range of colors to meet aesthetic requirements.

Tradesman Brand products have a successful history providing roofing solutions for projects ranging in scope from small residential areas to large commercial applications. Both professional roofers and building owners count on the Tradesman Brand for reliable quality and exceptional value.
